

Day To Day

Your unit breakdown is your lifeline. Use it to track the number of hours you rehearse each unit.

The one-minute rule is worth repeating.

Stay on time. If you schedule a rehearsal to end at 10:30, make sure people are walking out of the door as close to 10:30 as possible. If you have to put away things after rehearsal, stop a bit early and ask everyone to help. Your stage manager needs to get home too.